

STRUCTURE DETAILS

This will be a double circuit transmission line, which means there are two transmission lines using mostly one set of structures. The structures will have six transmission wires (three on each side), one or two shield/fibre optic wires strung on top and one wire below the transmission wires.

This diagram shows the typical structures that are being proposed for this route.

Structure A

